What is redistricting?

After the 2020 Census, Kentucky will draw new maps to show which parts of the state elect each member of the Kentucky House, Kentucky Senate, and U.S. House of Representatives. That process is called redistricting, and it is likely to change the districts that represent you and others in Madison County.

How can we estimate population changes before the 2020 Census?

The American Community Survey, conducted by the Census Bureau, provides county population estimates each year. Using the 2018 data, this County Estimate Report gives an initial idea of what is happening in your county and how redistricting may affect your area.

Looking at the big picture, what are the estimated population changes from 2010 to 2018?

- The fifty-state population increased 5.9%, adding an estimated 18,321,164 people.
- The Kentucky population increased 3.0%, adding an estimated 129,035 people.
- For the counties along I-75 as a group, population increased 8.1%, adding an estimated 67,918 people.
- Nearby, for counties east of I-75 as a group, population decreased 3.6%, losing an estimated 31,740 people.
- For Madison and other counties that share your Senate and House districts, estimated changes are shown on the next page.

For Madison County's Senate seat, what are the estimated changes?

When Kentucky used 2010 Census data to redistrict, each Senate seat needed between 108,484 and 119,904 people. If we used the 2018 estimates, each seat would need to be larger, with between 111,710 and 123,469 people. With current population estimates, Senate District 34 may be within the allowed size range for a Kentucky Senate seat, perhaps with some changes to the included Fayette precincts. Here are the numbers for each county in the district:

COUNTIES INCLUDED IN SENATE DISTRICT 34
County	2010 Count	2018 Estimate	Change	% Change
Fayette *	295,803	323,780	27,977	9.5%
Madison	82,916	92,368	9,452	11.4%
Rockcastle	17,056	16,750	-306	-1.8%
Total	395,775	432,898	37,123	9.4%
* signals that only part of a county is included in this district

For Madison County's House seats, what are the estimated changes?

When Kentucky used 2010 Census data, each House seat needed between 41,224 and 45,563 people. With 2018 estimates, each seat would need to be between 42,450 and 46,918 people. Madison County is served by five House seats. With rapid estimated population growth in some counties and losses in others within those districts, redistricting changes are likely. Again, here are the county-by-county numbers:
