What is redistricting?

After the 2020 Census, Kentucky will draw new maps to show which parts of the state elect each member of the Kentucky House, Kentucky Senate, and U.S. House of Representatives. That process is called redistricting, and it is likely to change the districts that represent you and others in Scott County.

How can we estimate population changes before the 2020 Census?

The American Community Survey, conducted by the Census Bureau, provides county population estimates each year. Using the 2018 data, this County Estimate Report gives an initial idea of what is happening in your county and how redistricting may affect your area.

Looking at the big picture, what are the estimated population changes from 2010 to 2018?

- The fifty-state population increased 5.9%, adding an estimated 18,321,164 people.
- The Kentucky population increased 3.0%, adding an estimated 129,035 people.
- For the counties along I-75 as a group, population increased 8.1%, adding an estimated 67,918 people.
- For Scott and other counties that share your Senate and House districts, estimated changes are shown on the next page.

How can you work for fair redistricting?

For Scott County's Senate seat, what are the estimated changes?

When Kentucky used 2010 Census data to redistrict, each Senate seat needed between 108,484 and 119,904 people. If we used the 2018 estimates, each seat would need to be larger, with between 111,710 and 123,469 people. With estimated growth in all three counties, Senate District 17 may be within the allowed size range for a Kentucky Senate seat, perhaps with some changes to the included Kenton precincts. Here are the numbers for each county in the district:

COUNTIES INCLUDED IN SENATE DISTRICT 17
County	2010 Count	2018 Estimate	Change	% Change
Grant	24,662	25,121	459	1.9%
Kenton *	159,720	166,051	6,331	4.0%
Scott	47,173	56,031	8,858	18.8%
Total	231,555	247,203	15,648	6.8%

For Scott County's House seats, what are the estimated changes?

When Kentucky used 2010 Census data, each House seat needed between 41,224 and 45,563 people. With 2018 estimates, each seat would need to be between 42,450 and 46,918 people. Scott County is served by three House seats. Seven of the eight counties in those districts have estimated population growth making redistricting changes likely. Again, here are the county-by-county numbers:
